If the court finds that the allegations of ~~delinquency or unruly~~ delinquent conduct have not been established, it shall dismiss the petition and order the child discharged from any detention or other restriction theretofore ordered in relation to the allegations. If the child is to be held in custody at a detention facility between the adjudicatory hearing and the dispositional hearing, the court shall conduct the dispositional hearing within 30 days of the adjudicatory hearing unless the court makes and files written findings of fact explaining the need for the delay. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, evidence sufficient to warrant a finding that acts have been committed which constitute a felony is also sufficient to sustain a finding that the child is in need of treatment or rehabilitation. If the court finds that the child is not in need of treatment, rehabilitation, or supervision, it shall dismiss the proceeding and discharge the child from any detention or other restriction theretofore ordered.

(2) Dispositional hearing for unruly child. If the court finds by proof beyond a reasonable doubt that the child committed the acts for which he or she is alleged to be unruly, it may proceed immediately or at a later time to conduct a dispositional hearing for the purpose of hearing evidence as to whether the child is in need of treatment, rehabilitation, or supervision and shall make and file written findings of fact and conclusions of law. If the court finds that the allegations of unruly conduct have not been established, it shall dismiss the petition and order the child discharged from any detention or other restriction ordered in relation to the allegations. If the child is to be held in custody between the adjudicatory hearing and dispositional hearing in a licensed foster home, a home approved by the court, or a facility operated by a licensed child welfare agency, the court may conduct the dispositional hearing within 30 days of the adjudicatory hearing unless the court makes and files written findings of fact explaining the need for delay."

SECTION 6.

All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed.
